Prohibition and Rondout Valley Farm Relief for Hoover Soon

Both Problems Must Soon Come Before President-elect—Recognizes "Dry" Abuses—Expects to Have Farm Relief Plan Ready for Special Session of Congress.

U. S. Utah, Jan. 4 (P).—Desires the selection of his cabinet and the making of other appointments of almost equal importance, Herbert Hoover soon must give his attention to two of the concededly gravest problems before his administration—prohibition enforcement and farm relief legislation.

Suggestions emanating from Washington that the prohibition unit be transferred from the treasury department to the department of justice met no response from the President-elect. It is asserted that an act of Congress is necessary, in the first place, to bring about such a transfer, even if it should be deemed advisable for administrative purposes, which has not yet been conceded.

Mr. Hoover readily recognizes the abuses which have grown up in the enforcement of the dry laws and in the treatment of the subject during his campaign he declared that only an organized searching investigation of the facts and causes could determine the methods correcting them.

His idea was for the appointment of a commission to study not only enforcement abuses but the workability of the law itself. The selection of such a commission, however, he recognizes, admittedly would be a difficult task, especially in view of the fact that prohibition figured prominently in the Presidential campaign.

Farm Relief Not Expected Now

Consideration of the farm relief question undoubtedly will go over until after the present session of Congress. Mr. Hoover does not desire to anticipate the action of this Congress, although the belief is general that there is no more probability of action now than there was at the time the President-elect announced he would call an extra session of the new Congress to act if the present one failed to put through adequate agricultural legislation.

In the solution of this problem the President-elect stated that he will turn to the leaders of agriculture, though, both in Congress and civil life. "Sincere leaders" would be invited to a conference, he has declared, and asked to join in a search for a common ground on which action can be attained for the amelioration of the present farming conditions.

The President-elect early today was only two days from Hampton Roads and still was encountering pleasant weather. While the temperature moderated to some extent, it was not expected that the Utah would run into cold weather before late tonight or early tomorrow morning. The big battleship was maintaining her average day's run of around 360 knots.

"LINDY'S GIRL" WAS MARRIED ON NEW YEAR'S

Chicago, Jan. 4 (P).—"Lindy's girl," as they used to call Leona Longley in Maywood, Ill., is Mrs. Harold Knoop now. The pretty, brown-eyed daughter of the Albert Longleys, at whose home Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh roomed when he was just plain "Slim" of the air mail, was married New Year's Day. Mr. and Mrs. Knoop were to drive by automobile Saturday to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home.

When Colonel Lindbergh lived at the Longley home, Miss Longley often assisted in preparing his breakfast, and occasionally she played the piano for him. She is 18 years old.

SAN DIEGO PIONEER DIES. WAS BORN IN POUGHKEEPSIE

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 4 (P).—Daniel Cleveland, a pioneer citizen of San Diego and for many years one of its most prominent attorneys, died yesterday after a short illness. He came here in May, 1869.

He was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1838, and was a lineal descendant of Stephen Hopkins, who came to America in the Mayflower in 1620. In 1865, when San Antonio, Texas, was bankrupt, and under martial law, he was commissioned its mayor, and in a short time brought order out of chaos and put the city's finances in good shape.

AUTO FALLS FROM BRIDGE. NINETEEN ARE DROWNED.

Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 4 (P).—Eighteen stone cutters and a chauffeur were drowned last night when an automobile taking a dangerous turn fell from a bridge into the swollen Ourthe river near Sav. Several persons saw the accident but were unable to assist.

The first bodies of the victims were recovered only today. Eight of them were married. They left a total of 29 children.

Favorable Factors in King's Illness

London, Jan. 4 (P).—Two favorable factors have appeared in the latest developments in King George's prolonged struggle.

The restlessness which prevented him from getting adequate repose on two previous nights seemed to have left him in a large degree and he passed the night more quietly. This, it was assumed, would prove helpful, adding to the powers of recuperation he needs to lift him out of this sadly debilitated state.

Concurrently this morning's bulletin reported improvement in the locally infected area.

The King's general condition was reported as being stationary. This indicated that at least there had been no setback. The inference was that the King had maintained the slight improvement noted recently.

The morning bulletin said: "The King had a quieter night. The local condition shows a slight improvement while the general condition remains stationary."

While this bulletin did not serve to greatly increase public confidence in the ultimate outcome of the King's grave illness it did nothing to depress the strong hope already held that the King's definite if painfully slow progress toward recovery would in due time gain headway enough to pull him safely through.

Washington to Be Made Example

Washington, Jan. 4 (P).—A ten-weeks' war on bootleggers and speakeasies to make the national capital an "example" to the cities of the country, will be launched in Washington next Sunday.

The campaign will be waged under the auspices of the national united committee for law enforcement with the purpose of preparing "the national capital for the incoming administration, pledged to a better enforcement of the law and to make Washington an example and encouragement to the cities of the nation."

Former Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has issued a demand that President Coolidge ask the commissioners of the District of Columbia to submit a list of speakeasies and close them on penalty of losing their jobs within a week.

Dr. Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, New York, who is in charge of the campaign, announced that he had been pledged the cooperation of the Washington Ministers' Association. He will initiate the onslaught on the liquor sellers at a meeting on Sunday at the First Congregational Church.

SNOWFALL HEAVIEST IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

Paris, Jan. 4 (P).—It was snowing almost everywhere in France today, except in Paris, and nowhere was there a greater fall than in the sunny south. Even Biarritz saw snow, which is extremely rare there. At Marseilles, Toulon and in all that region snow has been falling steadily for 48 hours.

Dispatches from points along the Riviera said that the sea had been stirred up by a gale which had done a certain amount of damage. At Cannes the seafront was strewn with wreckage.

The snowfall in the Avignon region caused a delay in railroad communication between Paris and the southeast. Indications were that the cold wave would continue for several days.

Rapid Hose Co. Elects Officers

Fred W. Sudheimer Elected President and Frank J. Strobel Foreman at Annual Meeting Thursday—Firemen Enjoy Chicken Dinner With Oratory.

Fred W. Sudheimer was elected president and Frank J. Strobel foreman at the annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company held at the engine house on Hone street on Thursday evening, and at the close of the business session there was served a chicken dinner with all the trimmings.

Those who will have charge of the destinies of Rapid Hose during 1929 are: President, Fred W. Sudheimer; vice president, Augustus Bunse; recording secretary, Richard Hinkley; financial secretary, Edward Geschwinder; treasurer, John Hermann; foreman, Frank J. Strobel; first assistant foreman, Montgomery Bailey; second assistant foreman, Kenneth J. Geary; trustee for three years, Henry Wenzel; steward, Jacob C. Port; delegate to Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, Theodore Flowers; delegate to Kingston Fire Fund Association, Peter P. Zeel; delegates to Kingston Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, Augustus Bunse and Edward Geschwinder.

The reports of the retiring officers showed that the company had enjoyed a prosperous year and that there was over $1,300 in the treasury.

While the business session was being held on the third floor of the fire house a corps of waiters from the Von Berg Restaurant, on Wall street, were busy on the first floor arranging the banquet tables and preparing the menu of the chicken dinner that was to be served at the close of the annual meeting.

Among the invited guests who attended the dinner were Fire Commissioner Harry B. Walker, Fire Commissioner Louis Kaplan, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich, Superintendent Marshall Miller of the fire alarm system, and his assistant, John Hoffman, Supervisor Frank O'Reilly and Harry Maisehender. Mayor E. J. Dempsey, who is a member of Rapid Hose, was also present.

Zeel Was Toastmaster.

One of the best dinners ever served in the fire house was then placed before the firemen and their guests, and was efficiently served by a corps of waiters. After everyone had unloosed the two lower buttons of their vests and sat back to enjoy the clears that had been furnished through the courtesy of the Kaplan Furniture Company of East Strand and Rose & Gorman of North Front streets, Peter P. Zeel, who has been an active member of the company for the past fifty-three years, presided as toastmaster. He said that Rapid Hose Company had been organized just seventy-two years ago. Today it has a membership of over eighty. Mr. Zeel said that he would call as the first speaker of the evening an honored member of Rapid Hose, Mayor Dempsey.

Mayor Dempsey Spoke.

Mayor Dempsey said that for once since taking office he was speaking from the sidelines, and not from the speakers' table. He was just a member of Rapid Hose that evening and in that capacity he desired to extend the welcome of the hose company to the guests present and also to assure the fire board and the fire chief of the earnest cooperation of Rapid Hose Company during the new year.

Zeel Hears a Rumor.

Toastmaster Zeel said that he had heard a rumor that evening it was a rumor that if it proved true would realize the work and dreams of the past twenty years—a new fire truck for Rapid Hose. He then called on Fire Commissioner Walker, who is president of the fire board, to speak about the rumor.

New Apparatus for Rapids.

Commissioner Walker said that it was undoubtedly true that within the near future Rapid Hose would have a new piece of fire apparatus that would far excel the present piece. He preferred, he said, to say nothing further of the matter at that time.

Fire Chief Speaks.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy complimented Rapid Hose on its efficient officers who had served during the past year, and knew that the incoming officers would also cooperate in every way with the department. Just what the new piece of fire apparatus for Rapid Hose would consist of he said that he did not know, but he was sure that when it was received the boys of the company would take excellent care of it.

Others Who Spoke.

Among the others who also spoke briefly were the retiring president of Rapid Hose, Jacob C. Port; Harry Maisehender, Fire Commissioner Louis Kaplan, Augustus Bunse, Supervisor O'Reilly, Fred W. Sudheimer, the newly elected president; Deputy Fire Chief Leverich, John Berger, an old member of the fire company; Superintendent Marshall Miller, John Hermann, Frank J. Strobel and Richard Fox.

Following the speaking a social hour was enjoyed in the parlors and the event was brought to a close.

$15,000,000 Tax Refund Explained

Assistant Secretary of Treasury Bond Says Settlement with United States Steel Corporation Is More of Compromise by Taxpayer Than Government.

Washington, Jan. 4 (P).—Details of a compromise settlement under which the government would pay $15,000,000 in tax refunds, plus $11,000,000 interest, to the United States Steel Corporation in termination of long-standing litigation were made public today in testimony given a house appropriations subcommittee.

The explanation was given by Assistant Secretary Bond of the treasury, who said that if the settlement is accepted by the Steel Company in lieu of the $161,000,000 it had sued for, the case would be "closed forever." The settlement, which already has drawn criticism from Representative Garner of Texas, one of the Democratic leaders, was described by Bond as "more of a compromise by the taxpayer than the government." Since the Steel Company has conceded about 20 important issues.

The original return of the company in 1917, he said, showed a tax of about $129,000,000 but, after years of study, the amount was whittled down to $173,000,000. The errors, Bond explained, occurred in determining whether certain income of the corporation and its subsidiaries on long term contracts should be credited to 1916 or 1917, the latter year being the first one in which an excess profit tax was paid.

Car Ran Into Rondout Creek

Signorino Carro of Progress Street Had Narrow Escape at Edenville as Car Skidded and Ran Into Creek—Carro Forced to Swim to Shore.

Signorino Carro of 27 Progress street, proprietor of the Ulster Barbershop at 533 Broadway, had a narrow escape Thursday afternoon from death while driving on the state road near the Edenville bridge when his car skidded on the icy road and he lost control of the steering wheel. The car crashed down the embankment near the bridge and plunged into the icy waters of the Rondout creek.

Fortunately it was on open car and Carro was able to escape from the car and swim to shore. He was cut about the nose and chin and chilled through by the icy waters. Today he was confined to his home, although he worked at his barber shop on Thursday after having his wounds dressed.

Efforts to raise the touring car from the Rondout creek will be made today.

Convention of Vets Here Sunday

The Hudson valley county convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held Sunday, January 6, at the rooms of Joyce-Schirick Post, 22-30 East Chestnut street. The session, which is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock, will be attended by delegates from posts throughout the Hudson valley, and guests.

State Commander Traver will, be among the high officials of the organization to attend the convention. It is expected that his message will hold plenty of interest for a big attendance. He will talk on subjects dealing with the activities of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which should draw as many members who can conveniently attend to the meeting.

Among the guests at the convention will be many prominent in municipal government. Invitations have been sent to Mayor Dempsey, Police Chief J. Allan Wood and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy.

Drive Criminals From New York

Failure To Find Gangsters in Their Usual Haunts—Regarded by Police as Indication They Have Gone Elsewhere.

New York, Jan. 4 (P).—Another sortie by Police Commissioner Whelan's liquor raiders had landed another batch of more than 20 easy proprietors in jail today.

Meanwhile the first tour of pool rooms and other hideaway places of crooks and gangsters by the newly revived "Strong Arm" squads brought out the fact that underworld characters known to the police had deserted their usual haunts.

The Manhattan squads visited places on the Bowery, in Chinatown and along the avenues and then swung up into the mid-town White Light district without finding any of the undesirables they had been instructed to drive out. In one place the squad demonstrated strong-arm tactics.

The detectives entered a basement resort in West 51st street, searched and questioned patrons and ordered them out. Then after seizing a quantity of beer and liquor, they wrecked the place. Crowbars and axes were used to smash the bar and to break furniture, mirrors and glassware. The bartender was arrested.

This was the second place demolished in the campaign against "crime-breeding speakeasies." A place in Greenwich Village was wrecked in a similar manner Wednesday night.

Members of the liquor raiding squads concentrated their activities in Harlem where about two-thirds of the raids were made. In each instance police confiscated supplies of liquor and made one arrest on a charge of possessing liquor.

May Prosecute Under State Law.

Commissioner Whelan announced he would avail himself of the weapon placed in his hands by the court of appeals yesterday when it ruled that speakeasies violated the state nuisance law. Proceeding against liquor dispensing places under the nuisance law would permit taking cases into the state courts as well as the federal.

The "Strong Arm" squads were sent out last night with specific instructions to make things uncomfortable for the lawless element of the city and to break up their dens, not necessarily to make arrests.

Harking back to a phrase he used when he took office, Commissioner Whelan said: "There is a lot of law in the end of a night stick. The men are being sent out not necessarily to make arrests—we do not wish to clutter up the court—but to do their duty in seeing that known hangouts for gunmen and the like are put out of business."

Failure to find gangsters was regarded by police officials as confirmation of reports that crooks and other undesirables were leaving the city for Chicago and other points.

POLICEMAN RUN DOWN BY MOTORIST DIES.

Buffalo, Jan. 4 (P).—John Bauer, 30, Cheektowaga policeman who was run down by a motorist last night, died early today from his injuries. He was struck and hurled down a twenty-foot embankment.

Police said Bauer approached the automobile because he thought its driver was acting suspiciously and as he did so the machine was deliberately steered toward him.

Authorities were inclined to link the running down of Bauer with the escape of William Wunderlich of Lackawanna, who is sought in connection with the shooting of a Buffalo policeman Wednesday.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS FIGHTING INFLUENZA.

Beauvoir, Miss., Jan. 4 (P).—A thin, gray line of veterans, tried and found true under Union fire of the Civil War, today was fighting an even grimmer foe—influenza—which had swept down upon the Jefferson Davis Old Confederate Soldiers' Home here.

The disease, coupled with pneumonia, has claimed the lives of five inmates of the home since Wednesday noon. Twenty-five others are seriously ill and 14 of the old soldiers, their wives and widows, are on the sick list.

NICARAGUA MAY SEND SACASA TO WASHINGTON

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 4 (P).—Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, former vice president of Nicaragua and head of the Liberal government set up at Puerto Cabezas in 1925, is understood to be slated for the post of minister to Washington by the new Nicaraguan government headed by President Moncada.

Advices from San Juan del Sur say that Dr. Rodolfo Espinoza, who held the foreign affairs portfolio in Sacasa's government, has been offered the same post in the Moncada government.

Boy Injured While Sleighing.

James Lawless, young son of James Lawless of the South Side, Saugerties, received a scalp wound that required about 50 stitches to close, while sleighing on Thursday. It is said the boy's sleigh collided with the automobile of Fred S. Van Voorhis. Dr. Hugh S. Childerster attended young Lawless.

Treaty Drafts Are Approved

Washington, Jan. 4 (P).—Without discussion the Pan-American conference on arbitration and conciliation approved in January session today drafts on multilateral arbitration and conciliation treaties which yesterday were approved by their respective committees.

In addition the conference found time to work out a means of settling the Paraguayan-Bolivian controversy, which on two occasions reached to the point where shots were exchanged and blood was shed.

Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, former vice president of Nicaragua, yesterday signed a conciliation protocol.

The arbitration treaty was regarded by conference delegates as being the greatest advance to the cause of peace ever made in the Western Hemisphere.

Two exceptions to the principle of compulsory arbitration had been made, namely, controversies involving third parties and disputes involving the domestic jurisdiction of states.

However, individual countries would be allowed to except other matters. Four nations, Mexico, San Domingo, Venezuela, and Colombia, already have announced that they want to except questions which national courts are competent to settle.

Another group probably will want to except disputes which began before the drafting of the treaty.

Kidnapers Release High School Girl

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 4 (P).—Kidnapers, death threats, drugs, and a dirty shack formed melodramatic sequence of the story told today by a pretty high school girl, who was found bound and gagged after two days' absence from home.

Doris Turner, high school athlete, collapsed last night in a filling station. She had been found nearby, bound at the ankles. Two hours later the girl said she had been released unharmed by a "kindly old man with a cane" for whom police had been searching for two days.

Blindfolds, she asserted, had kept her from discerning where she was after being held most of the two days in a dirty shack.

Authorities started an investigation Wednesday at the request of her parents, who had received a special delivery letter from her to the effect that she had been abducted by a stooped old man who cried when he recalled that she resembled his daughter, now dead.

The old man wanted to kill her, she added. Another man objected and persuaded his companion to return the girl to Atlanta because "things were getting hot."

A physician said the child had not been harmed, and was suffering only from exposure and weakness due to lack of food.

Unions Agree To Divide Work

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4 (P).—Carpenters and steel workers, after holding up work on the new state office building here for four months, have compromised on the question of who is to place the 2,500 window frames in the building, according to Colonel William M. Acheson, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works.

The carpenters contended that placing the window frames was part of their job, while the steel workers insisted that all steel work in a building should be erected by them under their union regulations and pointed with triumph to the fact that the frames were of steel. The dispute went from local unions to state, national and international officials.

Now the carpenters are putting in the window frames on alternate floors and the steel workers are placing the remaining frames, and the work on the exterior of the building is expected to be completed in about two weeks.

Question Mark Completes 3d Day, Breaking Records

Monoplane Already Has Broken All Endurance Records and Hopes to Break Continuous Flight Record Held by Graf Zeppelin—Estimated She Has Flown 5,000 Miles.

Imperial Valley, Cal., Jan. 4 (P).—With her two motors working perfectly, the monoplane Question Mark, started today its third day of flight at the third day of her flight of 112 hours, 46 minutes.

The limit of man's mastery of the skies in lighter-than-air craft remained undetermined today as the Question Mark, master of adverse elements and major mechanical imperfections, droned onward toward a distant goal, after having broken all existing world's endurance records.

Near the end of its third full day, the Army's trimotor endurance chaser, which was started on January 1, steadily advanced toward a lighter-than-air record this morning after having returned to America one of the two principal airplane endurance flight records held abroad.

The time of the second European record, that of continuous flight without refueling, was surpassed at 1:51 a. m. today, exact time, at which hour the resourceful five-man crew had held the ship aloft for 66 hours, 25 minutes, a full hour longer than the record set five months ago by the Germans, Johann Kietzer and Wilhelm Zimmerman.

The monoplane, groping its way over a wide section of Southern California in an effort to avoid creeping fog blankets and cloud banks, needed only land at this airport, possibly several days or a week distant, to get a final credit for eclipsing that record as well as the refueling endurance record of 69 hours, 7 minutes, held by Belgians, which fell last night.

Regulations for New Record.

Aeronautic regulations specify a new record places, in order to set a new record, must remain up an hour longer than the previous record holder, and land at the same field used for the takeoff.

Even should the plane in the closing hours of its unprecedented flight be so crippled that it could not return here it will nevertheless have carried human beings to a new record of aerial residence in airplanes.

Two dawns hence, if the plane remains up, and its army sponsors now vision the ship as still in the air possibly a week distant, it will be near to the existing endurance record of a man-made contrivance, which now is held abroad.

That record of 111 hours, 46 minutes of continuous flight was made by the German built Graf Zeppelin in its voyage from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J., last fall. A half hour before the monoplane equalled the Rietter-Zimmerman record last night it took on 179 gallons of gasoline in the third successful night refueling, which was the sixteenth refueling contact made by the two attendant ships.

The contact was made over the Imperial Airport near El Centro, to which point Refueling Ship No. 1 previously operating at San Diego, was moved yesterday when fog drove flight away from the coast line, and emergency measures were ordered by Major Carl Spatz, in command aboard the Question Mark, to meet the adverse weather conditions.

May Have Broken Another Record.

Majority of the first 15 contacts were at a speed of 70 miles an hour, and only minor trouble was experienced in the operations. It was estimated that the ship now has flown nearly 5,000 miles, which if in a straight line would have carried it to another record for non-stop distance flying.

The three 225-horsepower Wright whirlwind motors of the Fokker, any one of which can keep it going, have thus far functioned perfectly, and the only trouble experienced came Wednesday night when suddenly rising fog off San Diego nearly caused a crisis.

As the shades of night fell with only a little more than two hours gasoline supply aboard, Major Spatz brought the plane over this airport and dropped a new ordering refueling plane No. 1 up at once with a new supply. His first note could not be found on the big, dark field, and another was sent down. That note was found and shortly afterward Lieutenant Oulas Moon took off and delivered 170 gallons of gasoline.

At midnight the ship returned to the field asking more gasoline. Lieutenant Moon failed to establish contact in his first ascent and upon more dropped orders went up a second time to deliver 100 gallons of fuel.

Heroic Night in the Air.

Bumpy air and a dead storage battery which plunged the ship into darkness caused a heroic night aboard. Major Spatz reported in a note dropped yesterday which said all his crew were well. The battery was replaced during the day, and the ship headed into the San Fernando valley to escape rough air. It was forced to change its course frequently to avoid adverse aerial conditions.

Army reports showed that the plane had consumed close to six tons of gasoline and a half ton of oil. Refueling air contacts had required a total of 119 minutes.

Coolidge Names Roberts.

Washington, Jan. 4 (P).—Owen J. Roberts was nominated by President Coolidge today for reappointment as one of special government counsel in charge of prosecution of the naval oil cases.

Farm Bureau Urges Members To Take Inventory

The following appeal has been sent to members of the Ulster County Farm Bureau urging them to take inventories every year:

All farmers are cooperating to make the inventory campaign a success in 1935. The slogan has been adopted: "Farming without an inventory is like driving without lights. You can't see the ditch until you're in it." That tells the whole story. An inventory is a business proposition, placing a farm on a business basis.

The best argument that can be presented for taking an annual inventory is that thousands of practical farmers say, "It pays to do it." Last winter 50,000 inventory books were distributed in New York state. This is an indication of its worth. Business-like farmers know that this practice saves them money.

In the first place, an inventory shows a person just where he stands financially and an inventory this year and another next shows whether a person is going ahead or behind and how fast. An inventory does not, of course, show a person where the money came from or where it went or how much the different farm enterprises paid but it does show a person his net worth and how fast he is getting ahead. As one person expressed it, an annual inventory helps in making a plan for the future or in settling a claim.

One farmer who is a storekeeper takes an inventory as an account of his stock. The storekeeper depends on an inventory for settling claims. Within the last month, a farmer in Ulster county, New York, said that his inventory saved him $500 when he was settling up a few tows. If a farmer can't pay to an insurance company, "There's what my inventory shows," he is likely to get a much better settlement than if he has to depend on his memory.

Two farmers used to carry life insurance and there is little inducement for a farmer to put money into an investment insurance as an investment. However, many farmers are and more should be carrying straight life insurance for the protection of those dependent upon them. They with a life insurance policy in a safe deposit box should be an inventory of what a person owns and what he owes to help those who may have to settle up his estate.

Probably the most important reason for taking an inventory is that it enables a person to file a credit statement at a bank. This is indeed the age of specialization and a feed store specializes in feed and a bank in credit, and each is able to sell its own line at less cost than the other. When a person can get a cash discount of two per cent on a bill of feed but has it charged and lets the bill run a month or two, he is paying the feed dealer two per cent a month or 24 per cent per year for use of money. A man who can get a 10 per cent discount on a mowing machine and buys it on six months' time is paying 20 per cent per year for use of money.

Many agencies are cooperating to put over the inventory campaign next week, including: The College of Agriculture at Ithaca, the State Bankers' Association, local bankers, feed stores, Granges and the Ulster County Farm Bureau. Free inventory and credit statements will be gladly furnished on request by the Farm Bureau, 74 John street. Most banks also have a supply on hand for free distribution.

ROSENDALE GRANGE HELD NEW YEAR CELEBRATION

Rosendale Grange, No. 150, P. of H., ushered in the New Year with a most enjoyable gathering. The hall was attractively decorated with greens and a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree, and a basket filled with gifts for distribution among the members afforded much merriment.

The committee on arrangements for their coming masquerade ball to be held on Thursday, January 10, in Firemen's Hall, reported progress. Music by Zucca's orchestra. Each and every one is making an effort to do all they can for its success, for the benefit of the Grange. They cordially invite all friends to attend.

After the meeting, fine refreshments were served, then an hour of music and dancing, which ushered in the New Year with hearty greetings.

Our unmitigated falsehood for the day: We always feel when a motor bus about fifteen feet wide and experiencing more or less engine trouble is just ahead of us in the traffic that it has just as much right to the use of the street as we have.—Ohio State Journal.

Every Morsel of Food Hurt Me Says This Man

Port Ewen Resident Relates How He Suffered From Indigestion, Gas, Dizzy Spells, Nervousness and Kidney Weakness.

That the herbal medicine, Dr. McBride's Nu-Erb, which is being introduced in Kingston at McBride's Drug Store, makes a great advance in medicine is again evidenced by the recent statement of Mr. Pratt S. Van Kleeck, Port Ewen, N. Y. (Near Kingston).

"I suffered so badly from a disordered stomach that every morsel of food made me miserable with indigestion, gas and heartburn," said Mr. Van Kleeck. "The gas would form in large quantities after every meal and felt like a lamp of lead in my stomach which would press on against my heart causing shortness of breath and severe attacks of heartburn. My kidneys disturbed me several times at night. I became very nervous, irritable and could not sleep at night. My appetite was very poor and I also suffered from sickening, staggering dizzy spells."

"I tried many different medicines but nothing ever helped me to any extent until I started using the Nu-Erb about a month ago and I am pleased to say that this splendid

Do these two things to avoid "flu"

Keep your system in good condition; also protect your nose and throat

There's no need to get panicky, because the papers are full of news of an influenza epidemic. There's no use in isolating yourself because a lot of other people are sick with it. If you take certain simple precautions every day—and then don't worry—the chances are you will throw off any "flu" germs you are exposed to, and keep well.

We're not recommending that you dose yourself with a lot of medicines, either. Just observe two common-sense health rules which can be easily followed.

FIRST of all, make sure your system is in first class order. Don't let it get slowed up or sluggish. See to it that it functions perfectly. The easiest way to get run down and in a condition to pick up disease is to neglect this all-important matter.

Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable. Many doctors are therefore prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way.

Nujol can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. For it contains absolutely no medicine or drugs.

Get a bottle today at your nearest drug store and start taking Nujol tonight as our simple way to keep fit and to protect yourself against influenza.

That's the first precaution. Now for the second. Keep your nose and throat well protected with Mistol.

Dr. David says:

"You can't help breathing air that's laden with 'flu' germs and other bacteria these days. But you can protect your nose and throat against them. Keep them from lodging there and breeding and causing trouble."

"I'm advising all my patients these days to keep Mistol on hand and use it regularly. The first thing in the morning before you go out. And again at night when you come home. Don't be afraid to use it freely. It will do no harm. And then stop worrying. You've done all you can to safeguard yourself."

in your throat. You'll notice the pleasant, cleansing effect at once. Mistol clears your head and makes breathing easy. It has a healing, soothing effect on the membranes and relieves any irritation or inflammation. It helps dry up a running nose. Use it, too, as a gargle. Mistol is good for a sore throat or hacking cough. And above all, protects the nose and throat against germs.

"Don't wait till you begin to sneeze or your throat aches. Take my advice and get a bottle of Mistol today. Every druggist knows it."

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against influenza. Start this wise two-fold precaution now. Don't delay. Nujol and Mistol are both made by the same famous laboratories, of the finest quality materials and with the greatest skill possible. Both preparations are harmless. At all druggists. Aren't they worth trying?

Huge Sum Paid On National Debt

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP).—A reduction of nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars in the gross indebtedness of the United States during the last year was reported yesterday by the treasury, which issued figures to show that the debt had dropped $152,657,742 during the month of December.

The gross debt on December 31, 1927, amounted to $12,024,352,451. On last December 31 it totaled $11,709,749,155, a decrease of $314,603,296. On November 30, the debt was $11,493,405,877.

The balance in the general fund on the last day of the year was $249,543,968. The month previous it had amounted to only $21,026,728.

During the month of December tax collections and other receipts amounted to $449,104,202, of which income tax payments aggregated $151,701,592, leaving an excess of $297,402,610 in receipts over expenditures.

The report showed that $3,205,545,482 in gold coin and bullion was held by the government.

Boy Loses Eye While Sledding

Ronald, the four and a half year old son of Arlington Murphy of Napanoch, was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital Thursday evening where it was found necessary to remove one eye. The boy was injured while coasting on a sled, but the particulars were not ascertained. Dr. William J. Cranston who attended the boy at the hospital found that it was necessary to remove the eye. Today the boy was reported resting as comfortably as could be expected.

Africa Home of the Date

More than 1,000 different kinds of dates are known to the Arabs, but only 10 or 15 have proved commercially valuable in the United States and only four or five are being planted on any considerable scale. More than half the date palms in this country were derived from North Africa.

Blomshields Write of Opium

Well Known Woodstock Artist Writes Entertaining Account of Adventure in East—Now Visiting in Japan.

A true story of opium eating in the Far East has come to light in a recent communication smuggled through the mails from John Blomshields, Woodstock artist, who is touring the world with his wife, Eleanor. While the artist and adventurer doesn't go into details like De Quaker, his account should be of interest to the many friends of the Blomshields, as well as readers generally. Mr. Blomshields' story in part is given here:

"Woodstock friends who have been predicting for us an appropriately disastrous taking-off (because of liquor, late hours, irregular meals, no doubt, and other such habits) have now another comforting cause for concern. Our lead, indeed, has dragged bottom. 'The Tentacles of the East', if you don't mind—or better: 'Claimed by Another Swamp'. Curiosity has killed more than the nine lives of that king-prying cat.... the devil and idle hands, or what have you.

"Well, an empty evening, vicious inclinations, and there I was at that heathen Chinese door. Hideous importers of corruption!

"And of course—Eleanor (who with all her qualities is after all a woman) was furious that she should be obliquely curled in her sheets while such a vital change was coming into our lives. On the evening following the original indiscretion, our Dutch friends snarled us with rich foods and exotic liquors—they regaled us with music, pictures and charming conversation. But, were we contented? No! The yellow finger had touched us! At the earliest possible moment (2:15 to be exact) we sneaked off to that reeking den.

"And to our Opium.

"The stuff is deliciously rich and aromatic—and like all corruptives, irresistible. All our friends, I am sure, will soon be addicts. I am bringing enough back (in the toe of a sock) to keep Woodstock dreaming until the next Maverick. Get all the town set, excepting (if you want your pipe filled) Sgt. Cunningham, our local Sherlock Holmes.

"Through the fumes we see those classic columns of our post office."

JOHN BLOMSHIELDS.

This account is verified by Eleanor Blomshields-nee Rixon, who censured her husband's letter as outrageous, "the truth", and who mentions that their present stopping place, Garret, Java, is a delightful island in the Dutch possessions, with "excellent roads and buildings and all in perfect condition."

"Garret is a charming town, 2,500 feet high, surrounded by cock-eyed volcanoes."

The Blomshields send holiday wishes to their many friends; they plan to return to their Woodstock estate early in the spring.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

The Importance of Fabrics for Dresses and Hats as Well.
New York—While interest in the printed dress is momentarily at a low ebb, printed velvets and satins being the possible exception, the reappearance of printed silks for the spring and southern season is assured.

The idea that a printed material required plain treatment has been exploded. Pattern and others who have earnestly sponsored prints have demonstrated that they may be pleased in many and diverse ways.
The feeling for frocks, whether plain or patterned, is for soft, broken lines, and with the exception of strictly tailored things and others less strictly tailored, designed for sports, feminine softness remains the basic idea of fashion.

The Feminine Quality of So Many of the New Dresses is Expressed in This Model of Flat Crepe Printed in Navy on Ecru Ground. The Finely
Pleated Ruffles Are Ironed Out at the Borders to Flare. (Model by Miller Socars.)

(Copyright, 1929, by Fairchild.)

Among the most interesting uses of prints are those which include materials identical in design but different in texture. That one of these materials may be silk and another wool is of course possible now that the designs heretofore peculiar to one may be found in each.

It is amusing, but none the less important, to record that the fabric has established as a serious rival to felt. Hats which are in reality a strip of fabric adroitly molded to the head have become generally approved for formal as well as informal occasions. Agnes, Marie Gay and host of other French modistes have been inspired to employ materials heretofore foreign to millinery and as is the way with clever ideas there are copies galore.

Marketing Trip To New York City

Boulder Dam to Protect Rich Valley Against Silt Nuisance

CORREY Agent Albert Kardi of the local Farm Bureau, announced today that a study of market terminals and the movement of produce in New York city will be made by a hundred or more farmers from upstate on January 8 and 9, studying fruit and vegetables, and January 10 and 11, studying poultry handling in wholesale channels. A large group of western New York fruit growers are planning to go on special coaches the day before to attend the first two days of the trip in New York city and some of them are planning to stay for January 10 and 11 to take in the poultry marketing trip. Several Hudson valley counties have indicated a lively interest in the matter and when the group finally assembles at the Times Square Hotel, it is certain to take a number of the big gray buses to carry them about the heavy schedule which has been arranged through the local Farm Bureau.

Word has been received that in addition to close contact with actual market sales and produce movement on the piers in lower New York city a number of interesting side trips have been arranged, such as a visit to the ocean steamer "Adriatic" and special sight seeing trips at the close of the first day, with a lecturer in each bus. Evenings have all been left open and special help will be given to anyone desiring assistance in selecting an evening of entertainment. This is to avoid heart failure on the part of those desiring to choose one show from a list of forty.

Other stops will be made at milk plants, express terminals, livestock receiving points and the Federal Reserve Bank. Railroads have granted reduced rates for parties of 25, and details of the complete trip are being completed and made available at the local Farm Bureau office. Reservations must be made in advance and immediately.

NEW YEAR'S WEDDING PARTY OF SEVENTY YEARS AGO.

West Shokan, Jan. 3.—A new year's wedding party of seventy years ago is recalled by one of the well-known and respected residents, Mrs. Angeline Roosa of Bushkill, who will in the near future celebrate her 85th birthday. On December 31, 1858, there took place the marriage of Alanson Pelen and Katherine Ann Van Kleeck. The next day being New Year's a wedding party which included the bride and groom and six other couples of the town's younger set went with sleighs to Westkill where they put up for the night at the then famous Dan Devo's Tavern, at which place was to be held the well heralded New Year's ball. The supper that night was a bounteous feast consisting of roast pig with all the trimmings. Supper over the guests began arriving in increasing numbers until about 150 couples filled the spacious ball room, the walls and ceiling of which were very attractively decorated in evergreens. The music was furnished by "Ford's band" which was composed of Mrs. Chase, the legless pianist, and two violin artists, the piano and the orchestra occupying a raised platform supported by posts cut from green hemlock trees with branches attached. The dancing and festivities continued until the small hours of the morning before the ball finally broke up and the guests either departed or put up for the remainder of the night. During the night a change in the weather had taken place terminating in a January thaw which removed the good sleighing of the previous day leaving the roads a sea of mud which caused the wedding party to make the return trip with borrowed wagons which were later returned and the sleighs brought home with the next snow storm. The only survivors of the wedding party are the then charming bride, who is now and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Winne in her 84th year and Mrs. Roosa, nee and cousin, Sadie, of Ashokan, who so well remembers the happenings during her girlhood days of seventy years ago.

ASHOKAN.

Ashokan, Jan. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roosa of Olive Bridge were business callers Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis, Floyd Terwilliger, Burton Cudney and Mrs. Jane Guinac are flu patients of Dr. DuMoind.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Merrihew and Joyce paid Kingston a visit Thursday. George Sickler and cousin, Elizabeth Terwilliger, were Kingston callers Friday.

Mrs. George Barclay and Olive had a quilting bee Thursday.

Mrs. Amelia Morris was entertained at dinner on December 29 by Mrs. Alonzo Winne.

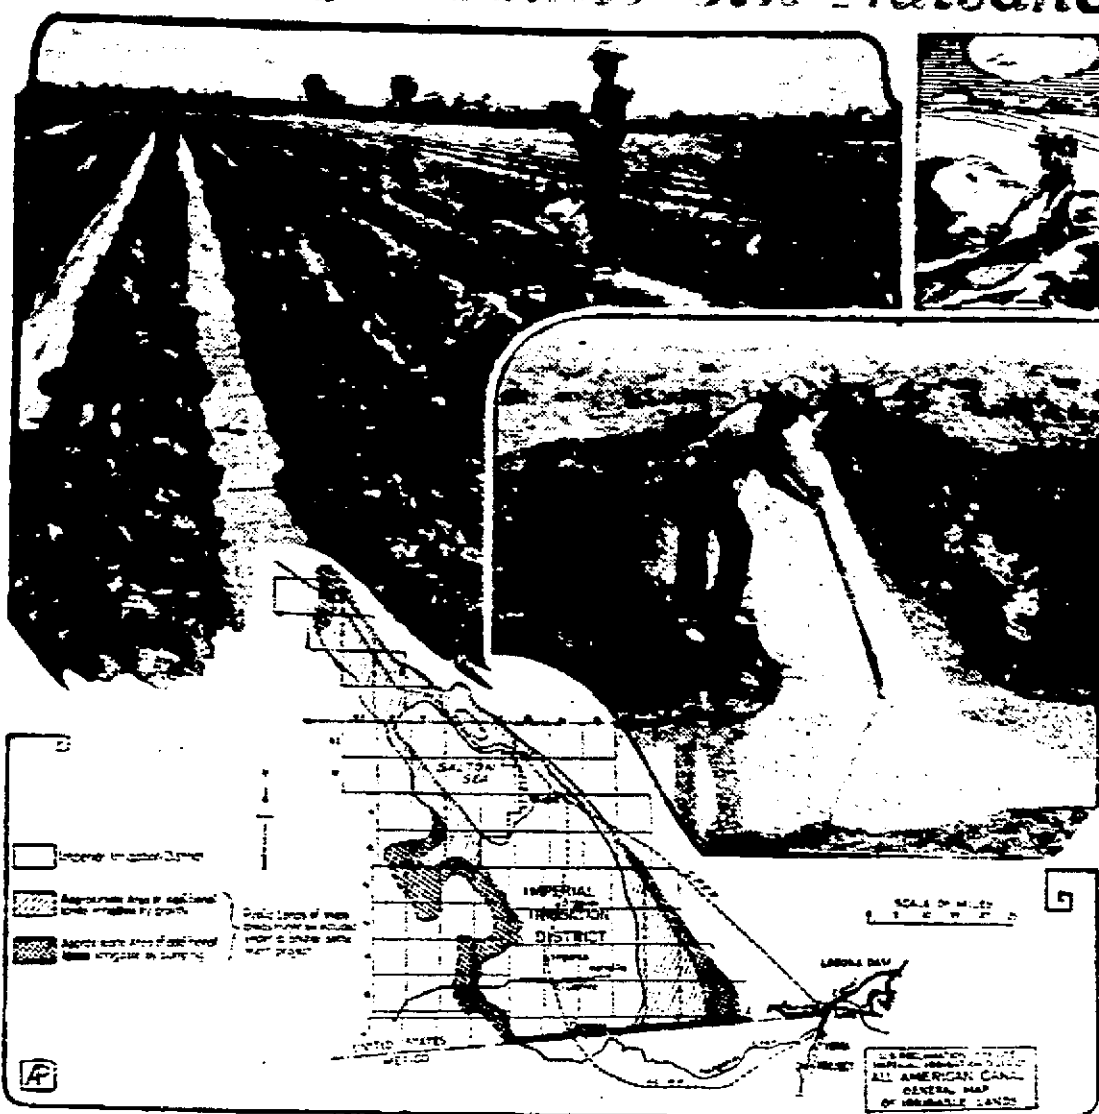

The Misses Helen and Lila Winne of Kingston are visiting their uncle, and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Winne in her 84th year and Mrs. Roosa, nee and cousin, Sadie, of Ashokan, who so well remembers the happenings during her girlhood days of seventy years ago.

A New Year's dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Winne of Ashokan. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winne of Allaben, Mr. and Mrs. A. Peck of Arkville and the Misses Helen and Lila Winne of Kingston.

Canada's Memorial

The singing tower of Ottawa is the Victory tower in the parliament buildings, which represents Canada's memorial to her 53,000 sons who died in the World war. A carillon comprising 58 bells has been placed in a memorial chamber from where recitals are given. The largest bell weighs 22,400 pounds and is 100 inches in diameter. The weight of the smallest bell is 10 pounds and the diameter is 8 inches.

Had One
A Broadway actress was having the matter of a new dress made for her. She asked a boy whether he would be willing to be her dresser. He said he would, but she said she would not be his dresser, then she said she would be his dresser.

Be Comfortable with Electrical Appliances

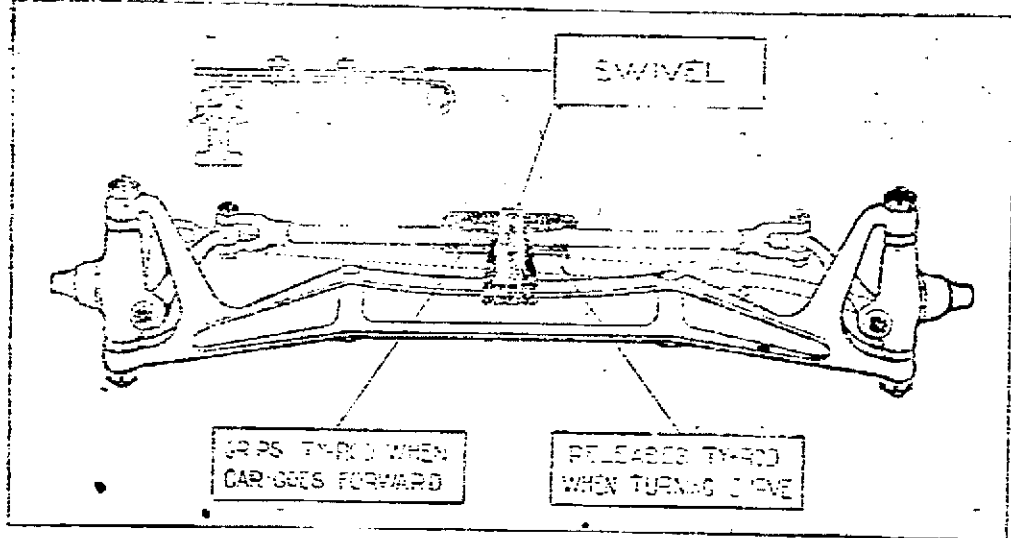

Plug in for electrical comfort in the home. At the first signs of chills or illness use an electric heating pad. Its soft, woolly cover is flexible and comforting and the heat may be regulated from low to high. An electric heating pad may be used in bed very conveniently—for invalids they are particularly soothing and they help banish temporary aches and pains quickly.

To chase chills from cold corners there are electric space heaters which throw a delightful warmth. In the bathroom on chilly mornings they glow with a cheery radiance that bespeaks cozy comfort while shaving or bathing. Placed in a corner where the children are romping an electric space heater keeps off harmful drafts.

There's a health-giving value and comfort to electrical appliances which adds a note of completeness and convenience to the modern home.

"Rain" of Quails
When quail began to fall into the streets of Nines, the historic town in France, the residents immediately thought of Santa Claus. Some of the birds fell just in front of the principal cafes in the main street, and there was a rush of customers to secure them. The "bag" was reported to be much larger than that obtained by local sportsmen on a day's hunting trip. The birds evidently had fallen from exhaustion after a long flight.

Trace of Early Man Found in Gravel Pit Near Oklahoma River

A gravel pit in Oklahoma having strata believed at least 500,000 years old is yielding traces of prehistoric man. Among the specimens are arrowheads and objects resembling a human hand and a human foot (upper right). A. H. Leases Caused by Colds

England has 5,000,000 colds a year, according to a prominent health officer. He places the annual loss through colds at $100,000,000 every 12 months. His estimate is based on the number of people who have from one to twelve colds a year, and on the fact that the efficiency of these is reduced for at least a week, the usual length of time they are ill even though still able to work to some extent.

Eltinge Spoke to Y's Men's Club

After their cheer for their victorious basketball team rang out heartily at the Y's Men's Club meeting Wednesday evening, Mr. Eltinge went to meet with defeat and New Year's evening defeated the almost invincible Chautauque. The Y's Men are mighty proud of their team. Two weeks from Thursday they will journey to Yonkers to meet a very strong team there.

The meeting was full of pep as was shown by the peppy singing under the direction of Tom Rowland, with Dan Miller at the piano.

After a short business meeting the evening's entertainment committee consisting of Erwin Crow, Henry Wesley and Harry Hutton. Erwin Crow acting as chairman of the committee in a neat speech introduced Henry D. Eltinge, line superintendent of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co., who gave a most interesting and instructive address on "Proper Pressure System of Resuscitation" and cited many instances where the knowledge of this simple system brought back to life many who were to all appearances dead.

The system in short is to lay the person who has been overcome by smoke, gas, water or electrical contact, face downward with head slightly downward and apply pressure with the hands immediately over lower ribs. It has been known of persons who were not revived until after three hours of constant work, so no one should get discouraged if they do not get immediate results. Mr. Eltinge said that all the employees of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co. were trained in this system as were the employees of the New York Telephone Co., and members of the fire and police departments. The Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A., and schools were also doing their part to spread the knowledge of this simple but very efficient system for as he aptly said if only one or two lives were saved to every one thousand persons trained in the system the effort would be well worth while.

Mr. Eltinge was requested to come back at a future meeting and give an actual demonstration of this system which he promised to do.

Howard N. Smith, Boy Scout executive for Ulster county, and a member of the Y's Men's Club, also spoke a few words in favor of what Mr. Eltinge had said and called the men's attention to three cases in which Ulster county Boy Scouts saved three lives through their knowledge of this valuable method.

The entertainment committee for next week will be Past President Jack Haulenbeck, George H. Bartlett, Jr., and Karl Messinger. The meeting next week will be on the usual Tuesday evening and a large attendance is looked forward to.

Oldsmobile On Display Saturday

Southard-Barnett, Inc., local Oldsmobile dealers, announce the first showing of the new 1929 Oldsmobile at their headquarters, 110 Railroad Avenue. Official announcement of the new cars will be made Saturday coincident with the opening of the National Automobile Show at Grand Central Palace, New York city.
Oldsmobile has just closed the most successful year in its history and the company is the largest manufacturer of automobiles and light trucks in the world. Some thirty new models were produced by the Lansing factory and with the added production facilities, it is expected that some one hundred and ten thousand will be produced in 1929.
When the new Oldsmobile was introduced at the show last year, the members of the press and trade papers called it "two years ahead" and the title of "The Fine Car of Low Price" was given to it. The 1929 Oldsmobile is truly "The Fine Car of Low Price—Made Finer."

Fundamentally, Oldsmobile design has not been changed. Certain refinements and mechanical changes were decided upon, however, which contribute to even greater value in Oldsmobile in 1929.
The maximum developed horsepower has been slightly increased, the diameter of the carburetor has been changed and valve stems lengthened. Full pressure lubrication to the piston pins has been provided, through, side drilled connecting rods. This is an unusual feature on a car at this price.
The front seats in all models are provided with a very accessible adjustment and the upholstery is of much heavier texture and richer in appearance. Headlamps are supported by chromium plated vertical standards and an entirely new Oldsmobile crest adorns the radiator.

The whole line of cars has been beautified and refined. The cars' appearance speaks for itself as being a product of a leader of varied and comprehensive experience.
Southard-Barnett have a two-door and a four-door sedan on display. The two-door sedan is finished in a shade of grey with cream panel and the four-door sedan is finished in an Algerian blue with beautiful blue-shaded upholstery to match.

Moths Menace Whole Country

Unless Present Control Measures Are Amplified—Should Protect Barrier and Push Campaign of Extirmination Eastward to Complete Successful Control.
Albany, Jan. 4.—(AP)—$20,000,000 spent by the federal and state governments to stop the devastation caused by the gypsy moth, New York state, in the past five years has spent less than a million dollars and during that period has prevented the westward spread of this most destructive forest fruit and shade tree pest. The work done by New York state in holding these moths in the barrier zone which was established in 1925 has shown that the gypsy moth can be exterminated by concerted action of the federal and state governments.
At the National Entomological conference in New York city, Henry H. Melville, supervisor of gypsy moth control in the Conservation Department, reviewed the fight that had been waged for nearly forty years against the moths and pointed out that now is the time to undertake a campaign of extermination.

The first control program was undertaken by the state of Massachusetts in 1890. In a period of ten years the insect was well in check, its ravages had ceased which caused the Legislature of 1900 to feel that continuance of the control program was not essential and the work was discontinued.
As a result of this suspension of the fight against the moths, in 1905 they covered an area of approximately 2,250 square miles, and the control program was renewed by the state of Massachusetts. In 1906 other New England states were involved in the control program and appealed for assistance to the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology. In that year the Department became actively engaged in the prevention of the spread of the gypsy moth.

From 1906 to 1922 every plan that could be devised and every effort that could be exercised by the Bureau of Entomology and states involved was tried in an attempt to prevent the spread of the insect.
In 1923 New Jersey actively engaged in cooperation with the Federal Department in stamping out a serious isolated Gypsy Moth infestation in that state. The same year the insect crossed the eastern New York boundary and New York state joined the other forces in an attempt to keep the pest out of the state. Hence the origin of the Gypsy Moth Barrier Zone, a barrier which has stood the test, prevented the spread and protected the states to the south and west for five years.

Cost of Campaign.
Figures on the cost of this campaign from 1906 to 1927 are approximately as follows:
Expenditures by states and federal government: $25,000,000
New Jersey has expended: 900,000
New York has expended: 1,000,000
The state of Massachusetts and its citizens expend annually nearly 1,000,000.

"In view of the enormous loss encountered by the ravages of this pest in the eastern states, and the expenditures in control, the economic status of the insect should not be overlooked," said Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald. "The states that have so far escaped this plague, together with those that have only experienced its initial advent, can credit their good fortune to the forces that have been instrumental in checking its spread, and should be anxious to extend their support to see that adequate federal funds are provided to deliver a crushing blow in the area east of New York state that now endangers the Barrier Zone."

"The greatest danger at the present time lies in the territory east of the barrier which is constantly feeding new infestations into the barrier zone requiring the work in the zone to be done over and over again. The present need is to protect the barrier zone to the east until the moths are ultimately exterminated for upon such action depends not only the safety of the forests, orchards and shade trees of New York but also of all states west and south."

PRESSURE FOUND ON OCEAN FLOOR

Tests Made in Submarine Show Porto Rico Is Forced Up.

Washington.—Pressures along the bottom of the Atlantic ocean force Porto Rico up and the ocean bottom north of it down to form the great Nares deep. This is indicated by observations of the intensity of gravity in this region, just made from the submarine S-71. Dr. F. A. Vening-Meinesz, who was in charge of the work, told about the investigations at a meeting here of the Washington Academy of Sciences, the United States Navy department and the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Dr. F. E. Wright, who, with E. L. Collin of the Navy department, accompanied Doctor Vening-Meinesz, spoke about the results and described some of the details of the trip. It lasted about two months and covered also the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea.

Gravity measurements are made for two purposes, Doctor Vening-Meinesz explained. One is to ascertain the exact shape of the earth, while the other is to study the behavior of the crust of the earth.

Measured With Pendulum. The only way of measuring the intensity of gravity with the required accuracy is by timing the swings of a pendulum. A pair of scales would not show its variation because both sides of the scales would be affected equally. A pendulum, however, vibrates more rapidly the greater the gravitational pull. Previously it has only been possible to make such gravity measurements on land, as the shaking of a ship interfered with the pendulum.

Doctor Vening-Meinesz, however, invented a method of using two pendulums. While both are affected by the sway of the ship their motion may be combined in such a way that the result is the same as of one steady pendulum. As, however, the method can only be applied if the ship's motion does not exceed a certain limit, he made his observations from a submerged submarine, where the motion of the waves has very small effect. Two trips in a Dutch submarine from Holland to Java, in opposite directions, showed the practicability of the device. As a result of the co-operation of the United States navy with the Carnegie instition, he was extended the use of the American submarine S-71 for gravity observations in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea.

In general, the investigations confirm the theory of Isenst, by which the earth's crust is supposed to consist of masses of various densities floating on a more or less fluid mass below. However, they found a departure of equilibrium in certain regions, which reveal stresses in the ocean bottom or in the subterranean layers. One of these regions is the central part of the Gulf of Mexico.

Two Ocean-Depths Studied. Besides that, two great ocean depths were studied. One is the Bartlett deep, about 22,500 feet, southwest of Cuba and between that island and Jamaica. Here they had the most time of their trip, for in eighteen hours they made five separate dives and observations. Altogether forty-nine gravity observations, each requiring a separate dive, were made. The Bartlett deep, however, rather unexpectedly showed no great stresses.

North of Porto Rico they studied the Nares deep, which showed great stresses at work. In the deep itself, the sides of which slope as much as forty degrees in some cases, there was a deficiency of gravity, while to the south there was an excess. Doctor Vening-Meinesz thinks that this indicates that there is a horizontal pressure in the ocean bottom in this region. This pressure causes a buckling, pushing Porto Rico up, and the deep down. The observations show that this pressure extends to even as far as East Cuba, i. e., much farther than the configuration of the ocean floor indicates.

River Drops Deposits. From their studies in the Gulf of Mexico, off the delta of the Mississippi, they found no evidence that the large masses which the river is continually depositing on the ocean bottom disturb the equilibrium. Apparently as fast as this deposit is laid down, the adjustments take place.

When the computation of the results is complete, some new light may also be shed on Wegener's theory that North and South America and Europe and Africa were originally joined, but that the western continent is floating away from the east. In his previous observations Doctor Vening-Meinesz found an excess of gravity off the Pacific shore of Central America, which might furnish an indication that the Americas were pushing westward. This would be in accord with Wegener's ideas. Now during this expedition, observations were made off the Atlantic coast. If these prove that there is a deficiency of gravity in this region, it would be in accord with this theory, for it would show a pull, instead of a pressure, on the bottom. It proves that gravity is in excess here also, however, the theory will get no confirmation.

Why We Do What We Do

by M. E. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WE ADMIRE A "GOOD SPORT"

A FEW years ago the English polo team came to the United States to play for the championship. They were defeated. And yet they gained the admiration of the American team and of all the sport reporters for the high type of sportsmanship displayed throughout the game.

Good sportsmanship, of course, is not confined to one nation or a particular sport. We find it everywhere. In championship tennis matches it is not uncommon for a player to dub a shot deliberately when he believes the referee made a mistake in his favor. This is the sort of thing that we like to see and to talk about. Long after the final score is forgotten we remember the act of good sportsmanship.

We value good sportsmanship because it appeals to our sense of chivalry. We admire it for the same reason that we admire generosity and unselfishness. It is a form of courtesy which means thoughtfulness and consideration for others. Good sportsmanship is in the field of sport what etiquette is in polite society.

We like to see a man win against odds. This appeals to the romantic in us. When an athlete protests a decision or offers an alibi he destroys the heroic element in sport. It looks as though he is not man enough to take his medicine. He has dispelled our illusion and we resent this as a personal insult. We call him a poor sport.

We value good sportsmanship as we value chivalry, courtesy, courage, unselfishness, and self-control. And because these qualities are fundamental the term "good sport" has come to be applied to anyone who displays these virtues in any activity of life.

Carols at Holy Cross Sunday

Special Program of Epiphany Carols To Be Given Sunday Afternoon—A 13th Century Number to Have Premier Hearing in America.

Those who heard the splendid rendering of Handel's "Messiah" last Sunday afternoon fully realized that the choir of Holy Cross Church has the ability to sing even the most difficult musical compositions with a perfection to be expected only of professionals. The present choir is made up of members who have for five years been singing together and who have acquired the most desired of all attributes for a singing organization—the tradition. Composed of some of the very best voices in the Hudson Valley it has been time and again rated as one of the best church choirs singing in America. This organization has prepared a special program of Epiphany carols for this coming Sunday afternoon, when for the first time in America a carol recently unearthed in the library of Christ College, Cambridge, England, will be sung. It comes from the 13th century, and is a forerunner of the splendid music with which England rang during the pre-Reformation period. It was brought to Holy Cross last summer in manuscript form, and is as yet unpublished. The complete program will be as follows:

Prelude—Benediction Nuptial Carol—Far Out Across the Country Old Bohemian Carol Office Hymn (for Congregation)—Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning—Hymn—Magnificat (in D)—Charles Francels Gounod Carol—Who Are the Three?—Arr. by Fr. In Love With His Secretary

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

HIS secretary, Jane Meadows, was neither pretty, to the casual on-looker, nor were her frocks and stockings of the alluring type so upsetting to the average male. That was the paramount reason why his fiancée, Helen Redmond, had not raised any objections eighteen months before when Hilary had engaged a feminine rather than a masculine secretary.

Hilary was a writer of steadily augmenting fame and the essential characteristics he demanded in his secretary were understanding, patience and a perfect willingness to work when the inspirational mood was upon him.

Fortunately for the restfulness of his secretary the night moods very seldom attacked him and no one knew, not even Hilary himself, consciously, just how exactly Jane fitted into the scheme of his life. She took down his copy swiftly with a mechanical and impersonal manner that at times made Hilary wonder how she possessed a so completely understanding grasp of his mental processes. She seemed often to divine what was coming from his lips.

However, Hilary was not conscious of the treasure his secretary really was and a very hot summer slipped past while they were immersed in the writing of his greatest novel—one that the publishers were already asking for.

Jane was almost as enthusiastic about the novel as was the writer himself. It promised to be a masterpiece and the bulky manuscript was piled in chapters on the shelves of the tiny studio.

In order to secure greater privacy and also to command a broader view of the lovely surrounding landscape, Hilary's studio was built up high among the wide branches of a great oak tree and was approached only by a narrow winding stairway.

His secretary and his fiancée were the only two persons ever permitted there and Hilary, not being a smoker himself, was not too pleased when Helen smoked a cigarette in his studio. He liked the fresh, sweet air from the tree tops and drew it into his lungs as a confirmed smoker inhales the tobacco fumes.

Helen often wished she could take a tremendous interest in Hilary's work, but she couldn't, and that was all there was to it. She wished he would write lighter, more popular novels and not those weighty ones. The checks would no doubt be equally big, if not bigger. And in that case, she, too, might have taken a vivid interest in his work.

On the evening when the big novel was practically ready for its journey from the small studio, Jane sat in her bedroom with chin in hands, gazing at that tree-top haven which held the precious script. Her eyes were somewhat wistful and she was conscious of feeling a trifle sorry that such interesting work was, for the time being, over. Jane loved the studio even as she loved—but then Jane had not admitted even to herself that she loved Hilary. Hilary was engaged to Helen and Jane dared not think of the time when he should be gone from her life.

And as she gazed at the little studio in the semi-dark she suddenly saw a tiny snakelike flame leaping through the window and threatening all that the studio held.

Without a moment's hesitation Jane leaped swiftly down through the garden path. To her horror she saw that the little stairway was a mass of flames. The precious manuscript would be destroyed and nothing left but the ashes of a tremendous struggle.

Swift as lightning Jane climbed up the kindly branches of the great oak and, smashing the window, quickly wriggled into the now flaming studio. She was just able to snatch the manuscript into her arms and bound again toward the window and fling the awful of papers far into safety before the small structure collapsed. Jane knew no more until the following day, when with bandages and a nurse and many accessories of the sick room, she realized what had happened.

"Is it safe?" was her first question. Then some one who she had not known was standing nearby answered, and drawing nearer took Jane gently into his arms. He didn't care if the nurse looked on nor did he care a jot that he was engaged to Helen Redmond, whose smoldering cigarette tossed carelessly into the waste basket of the studio had almost lost the life of Jane.

Hilary had known in a blinding flash that which his unconscious self had known for some eighteen months and that was that his love for Jane was the biggest thing in life and—well, the manuscript of the masterpiece would have been but drops and ashes and a bitter regret if it had been the cause of one single moment of pain to the wonderful girl in his arms.

"I'm not in any pain," she said softly as if she knew his very thoughts. "I am happier than I have ever been—now."

"You are not one-tenth as happy as I am," said Hilary, "and I will spend the rest of my days trying to be worthy of the great love—trying to make you happy, dear."

"It won't be difficult," said Jane with a tender smile.

Ocean Levels
The mean level of the Pacific ocean at the isthmus of Panama has been found to be about eight inches higher than the mean level of the Atlantic. In the month of February the mean levels are the same, but throughout the rest of the year, on account of current, tidal and wind influences, the mean level of the Pacific ranges above that of the Atlantic. It is as much as one foot higher in October.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (P).—Bullish forces in the stock market received a temporary setback today when a deluge of selling, inspired by the record-breaking total of brokers' loans, forced prices down 2 to 5 points. Fresh buying support was quickly forthcoming and an irregular recovery ensued in which early losses were cut down and a number of public utility, copper, chemical and food shares were marked up 1 to 3 points above yesterday's final quotations.

The rally was influenced by a further easing in the credit situation. Call money renewed at 8 per cent, dropped to 7 and thence to 6. Federal Reserve officials intimate that the ease in money reflects a temporary surplus accumulation of funds here incidental to the heavy year-end payments.

Except for an increase of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania Crude Oil prices, and reports of a brisk demand for copper metal, there was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movements. Activity of many specialties reflects the many merger discussions now under way, and the prospect of higher dividends when the 1928 earnings are compiled officially.

Wide fluctuations occurred in several of the high-priced issues. Radio broke 9 points to 388, rallied to 393 and then eased again to around 390. General Electric fell 5 points to 230 1/2 and rebounded above 236. Abraham & Straus slumped 7 1/2 points to 147 1/2 and snapped back to 153 1/2. Union Carbide dropped 5 1/2 but quickly recovered its loss.

The strong support provided for many of these issues on the breaks indicated that powerful speculative forces working for higher prices were not yet ready to give up control of the price movement. Some observers interpreted the huge increase in brokers' borrowings as an indication that extensive distribution had taken place.

New leaders were quickly brought forward in the afternoon recovery. American Radiator ran up 8 points to 201, National Lead Lead 4 1/2 to 140 1/2, and Mohawk Carpet 4 1/2 to 77, all new high records.

Other issues to move into new high ground included Anaconda and Kennecott Coppers, International Nickel (new), Penick & Ford, Postum, Gillette Safety Razor, American Metals and Kansas City Southern.

There was a fairly well-sustained demand for the rails, presumably in anticipation of a favorable decision in the St. Louis & O'Fallon case, now before the United States Supreme Court, on which hinges more than a billion dollars in railroad valuations.

Customs Patrol Shoot Three Men

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jan. 4 (P).—Three men, alleged rum runners, were shot, none fatally, early today by United States customs border patrolmen when they resisted arrest as they are alleged to have landed a boatload of sixty cases of central brand liquor on the river shore at Lewiston, seven miles north of here. The wounded men were brought to Mount St. Mary's Hospital in this city.

They described themselves as Charles Schultz, 29, a chauffeur; Joseph Green, 29, a railroad employee; and Philip Curzon, 22, a waiter. Schultz was shot in the right arm, Green in the left leg, and Curzon also received a leg wound.

The border patrolmen seized the boat and liquor. A fourth man, who described himself as Daniel Graham, 24, was locked up at police headquarters late this morning by border patrolmen, who claimed that he was a member of the alleged rum running gang.

LOCAL DRY AGENTS

ARREST VALATIE COUPLE

Federal agents working out of the local prohibition office, accompanied by Sheriff Jacobs and police officers of Hudson, N. Y., arrested Frank Endric and his mother of Valatie, Thursday, on a charge of violating the Volstead act.

Endric spent Thursday night in the Hudson jail until bail could be furnished today. He and his mother, who was paroled instead of being placed in jail, are to appear before United States Commissioner A. C. Connolly in Kingston on Saturday at 11 a. m.

The raid, following a complaint to the dry headquarters, yielded a large quantity of alleged liquors, wine, beer and cider. Some of the stuff was seized and the rest destroyed.

Explaining Abbreviations

"Mr." was originally the abbreviation of "master" in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries in England. "Mistress" is merely a rendering of the pronunciation of the abbreviation. It was used as the prefix for anyone below the rank of knight. "Mrs." is an abbreviation for "mistress," originally one who had care or authority over servants. "Miss" is derived from the same word.

Underwater Tension

The average weight of the American submarine ranges from 600 to 800 tons. The thickness of the sides is from one-quarter of an inch to one-half an inch, depending upon the type of submarine.

Edge Proposes to Study Prohibition

Washington, Jan. 4 (P).—Appointment of a commission of nine citizens by President Hoover to investigate prohibition was proposed in the Senate today by Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey.

The New Jersey senator, who was one of Hoover's supporters in the campaign, submitted his proposal as an amendment to the resolution offered yesterday by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, for a Senate inquiry of prohibition. Jones wants an investigation by friends of the law with a view to "building up rather than tearing down."

Senator Edge is a wet. His amendment stipulated that on April 1 the president should name a commission of nine citizens.

"In my judgment an investigation conducted either by extreme drys or extreme wets or solely by politicians would be futile if the country is to be impressed with the final recommendation from such an inquiry," Edge said.

Three Industrial League Contests

Three fast games of basketball were played in the Industrial League on the Y. M. C. A. court Thursday evening. The Gascoes defeated the Schillings, 25 to 13; Hercules scored over Artistics, 22 to 16.

M. Tiano for the Brighams made 11 held baskets but his good work was not sufficient to overcome the steady and accurate playing of the Gascoes who cared a total of 22 fields.

In the game which the Silk Mills won over the Schillings, Maccholdt was the leading scorer with nine points.

Van Etten was again the outstanding scorer for the Hercules in their victory over the Artistics. He had a total of 11 points. The Hercules were behind at half time, 11 to 7.

WHY LLOYD HAHN LOST BIG RACE

Otto Peltzer Thinks He Had Too Much at Stake.

One reason why Lloyd Hahn, Sera Martin and Helmut Koenig did not win the golden medals at the Amsterdam Olympics that their supporters expected them to gather in is the fact that these men had too much at stake. This is the opinion of Otto Peltzer, leader of the world's record for the 100-meter distance.

"In sporting circles the question is much argued whether hard or light training is the better means of preparing for big contests," Peltzer observes. "I have been criticized for training as hard as I do. But what of the Finns, who proportionately develop more and better athletes than any other nation? They know how to train harder than any nation."

"The question is, in my opinion, not one of the relative merits of two methods of training, but of a sensible attitude toward competition in sports. I don't believe that Martin, Lloyd Hahn or Koenig really trained too hard. They could not achieve victory at Amsterdam because they were too high favorites, because they had hardly anything to gain over their previous records, but, on the contrary, had much to lose."

Peltzer believes that the best way to gain the right psychological frame of mind for achieving outstanding success is to appear in contest after contest, even if one knows in advance that one will be beaten.

Referring to his own failure at Amsterdam, Peltzer says the doctors told him before the Olympics that he was in no condition to win. But he entered nevertheless in order to get his nerves used to defeat.

"My recent experience has anew convinced me that numerous competitions do not interfere with the quality of one's performances," Peltzer concludes. "Within ten days I won five international victories and secured two good seconds."

"If one can enter every contest unconcerned as to victory or defeat, numerous competitions won't hurt. On the other hand, if one must every time go through the nervous suspense of contests that are advertised in an exaggerated manner as sensations, a few races a year can completely ruin a track athlete."

De Victor Placed

Oliver J. De Victor, well-known trainer of eastern university athletic teams, has been added to the athletic department of Washington university, St. Louis.

For the past eight years De Victor has been head trainer at the University of Pittsburgh. Before that he was at Pennsylvania State college for nine years as head trainer.

Blind Boy Plays Nice Golf Game

A blind thirteen-year-old sophomore in high school, Barton Cooper, son of Lieut. W. S. Cooper, of the United States navy, is one of the best golfers in San Diego, Calif. The golf axiom, "Keep your eye on the ball," had not, according to the American Magazine, caused young Barton to fall at the game, for he has made 43, four over par, for nine holes.

In playing, young Cooper carefully tees his ball, then he runs down the length of the club, preparatory to setting the club head about an inch back of the tee. In taking his stance, his caddy tells him the direction of the next hole by placing his arm across the boy's chest, and then squares his shoulders on a line with the hole. After the young player is all set, the caddy describes the slopes in the fairway and the hazards.

Largest Swimming Squad in the History of Yale

Two hundred and fifty men are out for the Yale swimming team. It is one of the largest squads in the history of the school.

The increased interest is attributed to the repeated successes of the Yale teams coached by Robert J. Kipp.

Kipp, tank coach for twelve years, has developed teams which won 141 of 143 intercollegiate contests, checking up 57 world's records and 94 intercollegiate records.

Dempsey Knocks Scribes Groggy

Macon, Ga., Jan. 4 (AP).—Edward to Miami, Fla., to talk it over with Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey is issuing a one-man consensus of the heavy-weight situation, and as interpreted by his interviewers along the line, it runs something like this:

"The winner of the Stripling-Sharkey fight at Miami Beach February 27 will be the next champion of the world."

"I am willing to meet the winner of the Stripling-Sharkey fight, but I will have no announcements to make until I see Rickard."

"I'm not sure yet that I want to box again."

"I will not referee the Miami Beach fight."

"I believe George Godfrey, the Negro, is the best among the crop of heavyweights just at present."

These contributions to fight talk left the scribes in cities through which the former champion has passed in the last 24 hours dazed, and somewhat groggy. The goad will ring on the next round of the scribblers' battle with Dempsey at Miami Beach tonight and it appears that Dempsey's mighty right has been bolstered with rhetoric that will carry a knockout punch.

His last official contribution was made last night when he passed through Macon. Young Stripling, back from Kansas City and a New Year's Day bout, had just arrived and was at the station when the Dixie Flyer came through with Dempsey aboard.

"Hi, Strib," was Dempsey's greeting to the young Georgian, whom he has never seen in action.

Dempsey said he was in a hurry to reach Miami, where Rickard is ill after an appendicitis operation, and Young Stripling, a licensed pilot, offered to fly him down.

"No, I'd better go on," Jack replied, "but I would have been glad to have remained over with you for a while if Rickard had not been ill. Thanks for your offer and for coming down to the train."

"Sharkey's a good fighter," Dempsey told sports writers who asked his opinion as to the Miami Beach fight, "but I haven't seen Stripling work. I understand, however, that he has got a powerful sock in that right hand now, and has improved a lot in many ways."

At Nashville earlier still on the trip down from Detroit Dempsey was quoted by newspapermen as saying he thought Godfrey was the best heavy-weight just now, and that he would meet the winner of the Stripling-Sharkey fight, or at least that he was "willing to do so."

ED "STRANGLER" LEWIS TO WRESTLE SONNENBERG.

Boston, Jan. 4 (AP).—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and Gus Sonnenberg, the challenger, were primed today for their championship match at the Boston Garden tonight.

Lewis, who tipped the scales at 235 pounds, had a 35-pound weight advantage over Sonnenberg
